Easter

NIGHT AND MORNING

A blood-red disc, the Sun went down.
As if with it all hope would die;
As if its glory ne'er would crown
Again the all-encircling sky.
The earth was parched; a dry, dead air
Made life a burden; and with blight
Which seared fair nature everywhere.
The world plunged downward into night.

Not yet the end—a gracious light
Breaks in the east! It grows apace,
It thrusts its arrows through the Night.

It fills the utmost reach of space
With warmth and life and love supreme,

Till darkness of its power is shorn,
And banished as an evil dream,
By radiance of the Easter morn!

J. C. SHERER.

Verdugo, Cal., Apr. 12, 1903.

Forest Grove Park

Before it was captured and confined in a pipe of cement to be carried to thirsty soil below, a limpid stream wandered in joyous fashion down the roadside in Verdugo Canon, laving banks of gravel and turned aside here and there by a gnarled sycamore, up into the branches of which climbed the wild grape vine which fell again in festoons of green and gray, to dazzle the eye with glint of sunshine and hang about the head of the traveler on the narrow roadway.

Then a railway came, pushed into the jungle ruthlessly. The underbrush was partly cleared away, the grape vines, the clematis and the poison oak went into the brush heap promiscuously. A fence, some benches and a pavilion, and there was Verdugo Park. For several years the railroad carried excursions to this picnic ground, sometimes on week days, and nearly always on Sunday. And the Sunday excursions! Even the memory of them is redolent with beer! And the Sabbath-keeping community thro which the picnickers traveled to and fro, has a vivid recollection of the noise of their passing by, filled with the spirit of joyousness that was carried out in kegs!

About a year ago the property changed ownership, and Verdugo Park passed into history. That it will no longer be a resort for inebriated picnickers is evidenced by the character of the men who compose the Forest Grove Land Company, even if the plans which they have for the place had not been published. The property is owned by a company, of which the following are the names of the officers and directors:

P. H. Bernays, President.
Geo. F. Conant, Treasurer.
Geo. R. Murdock.
John A. Pirtle.
Thomas Vigus.

Ever since they came into possession of the property, the work of improving it has been going on constantly. The enclosure consists of ninety acres, about fifty of which have been set aside for park purposes, to be improved in a manner far more elaborate and attractive than any other similar pleasure ground in this part of the state. The plans for the work have been made out in detail by the landscape gardener who planned Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

The natural features of the park lend themselves readily to the ambitious scheme of the landscape artist. Through the center of the grounds runs the stream of pure water which rises in the cienegas a half mile above, flows thro the park and is led into a pipe just a short distance below, by the Verdugo Canon Water Company, which furnishes Glendale and Tropic with water.

The boundary of the property on the west is a hill rising abruptly to a height of 300 feet or more and affording alluring possibilities in the way of foot trails or bridle paths. The underbrush has generally been removed, the trees trimmed, rustic bridges built, roads made, and several acres just north of the grove have been cleared of brush and is now an attractive stretch of landscape.

It is the firm expectation of the proprietors that an electric road will lead to their property from Los Angeles in the near future; and with this idea in mind one of the main features of the improvements contemplated is a boulevard 110 feet wide near the eastern line of the park, running directly thro it, having space for a double track electric road in the center, with driveways and footpaths on either side. On the eastern side of the railroad will be the stables, garage, etc., for the accommodation of teams and vehicles. On the western side of the railway will be an attractive picture for the eye to rest upon—choice foliage plants, rare trees, bright flowers and stretches of green grass. Then will come the pavilion, 120 feet long, where luncheons will be served, with all the attractive features of such a resort. On the other side of the pavilion the clear waters of the stream will be an attractive feature charming to the eye as it flows rhythmically along.

On the attractive plans for this elaborate resort appear provisions for tennis courts and other games. In fact, no feature of attractiveness that can be suggested, consistent with a high class pleasure resort, seems to have been omitted from the elaborate plans, all the details of which cannot be given in this brief space. In close proximity to the pleasure grounds, a number of acres have been set aside for villa sites, on land that is level in front and rises to a considerable height in the rear, affording building spots ideal in elevation and outlook.

TRUSTEES MEETING.

All the trustees were present. Demands as follows were referred to the finance committee:

G. W. Allen, for labor, $10; Currier & Son, kerosene, $1; L. F. Hadrick, rent, $20; J. C. Jennings, labor, $9.

Demands No. 172, 173 and 174 amounting to $150 previously referred to the finance committee, were reported back favorably and warrants ordered in payment of the same. The street superintendent was instructed to notify the Salt Lake Railroad people that their spur track on First street must be moved and put in proper condition within five days after service of notice, or the work will be done by the city at the company's expense.

The street superintendent was instructed to make necessary repairs on Second street east of A street, and also such repairs on Verdugo road, as may be necessary. The request of George B. Mock for extension of time for sixty days on his contract for work on Fourth street between Glendale avenue and Brand boulevard was granted. Application of E. D. Reynolds for permission to do work by private contract on L street between Second and Third streets, was granted.

City Attorney was instructed to prepare the necessary resolution appointing T. W. Doyle, city assessor. The President of the Board and the clerk were authorized to sign the contract with the Glendale Light and Power Company as read at previous meeting. A petition was received from property owners on Fifth street, between A street and Verdugo road, asking that the necessary proceedings be taken to curb, sidewalk, grade and oil that portion of Fifth street. The petition was referred to the city attorney to report on at next meeting, and instructions given to prepare the necessary ordinance recommending a grade between Verdugo road and the Child's tract, East line, on this street.

Charles E. Stanley presented a deed conveying to the city certain land mid-way between Second and Third streets, east of A street, to Verdugo road, to be used for street purposes. The same was accepted and ordered to be placed on record.

The map of the G. B. Edwards tract, was finally accepted.

A resolution directing the city clerk to publish notice of the sale of fire apparatus bonds, was adopted. The clerk was instructed to notify the Merchants Association that the conditions set forth in their communication of recent date referring to a night watchman have been considered and are not acceptable to the Board.

REAL ESTATE.

Mr. L. H. Hurt has bought the Kate C. Palmer tract located on A street corner of Fifth. He has had it platted, curbed and sidewalked and it is now on the market.

The Overton Realty Company has sold a lot on Verdugo road, south of the residence of Mr. Lennox, to Mr. T. E. Kennedy of Long Beach, who will probably build thereon a handsome residence.

Mr. Hoffman is building a 4-roomed bungalow on Second street opposite Rev. S. L. Ward's residence.

Miss Mooman, who is on a vacation from her work as missionary in China, where she has been working for the last seven or eight years, is visiting Mrs. Harris on Third street.

The committee, of which Mr. Barager is chairman, appointed by the Board of Trade to look after the cleaning up of city lots and streets, held a meeting at the City Hall Monday. By reference to Ordinance number 21 it was discovered that the principal work of the committee is covered by the requirements of said ordinance and the committee will take steps to have the provisions of this municipal law made known to citizens in general, and so assist in its enforcement. This ordinance declared it to be unlawful to deposit waste paper, tin cans or anything in the nature of garbage on city lots and also requires owners and tenants to keep weeds down, not only on the lots, but also on the sidewalk space along the streets. The committee hopes that it will only be necessary to make known the provisions of this law in order to secure its enforcement; if that is not effectual, they will recommend the necessary action by the proper officers.

The committee will exert itself also to secure uniformity of work in tree planting, both as to variety and methods, and wishes the assistance of citizens in this direction. The committee consists of Messrs. Barager, Woodberry and Sherer.

This Paper is a Member of the Los Angeles County Press Association.

To-morrow will be Easter Sunday. Go to church and be good. Anyhow, be good!

Speaking of being good, we have known people whose good works were confined to their own family, and with smug self-complacency they apparently believed that in letting the rest of the world take care of itself, they were fulfilling their entire obligation to it.

If this was a pulpit, instead of a column in a high class and only semi-religious journal published for the edification of the race in general and of patrons in particular, we might quote scripture for our purpose, and thereby prove that a person may be very good, even generous, to the members of his own family, and yet be a very poor citizen and a very selfish person. But we refrain, and merely drop the thought by the wayside.

State Division

This old ghost will not down, and we do not believe that it is desirable that it should. There is a spirit of discontent that makes for progress and prevents the growth of certain evils. There are some very good arguments in favor of state division, and there is no good reason why the subject should not be agitated in a friendly spirit periodically, as it is.

The Hon. Frank H. Short of Fresno, makes a very reasonable statement which seems to show that there are legal reasons which will prevent the separation from ever taking place, but there are other good lawyers who do not agree with Mr. Short. We may safely assume, for the present, at least, that there is no insurmountable obstacle in the way of state division, but that it will be a good while before it is brought about.

Meanwhile our orators and real estate men may continue to ring the changes on "this magnificent state of California."

Goldfield, U. S. A.

This is the name and address of a very lively town out in the sage-brushy, wind-swept Nevada desert. A place that seems underlaid with gold, and which has therefore attracted to it a very large portion of the scum of the Western mining regions, and also a good many Americans and others of average virtue. It really seems necessary to specify that the place is in the United States of America—"the land of the free," etc., etc.

Recent events and present conditions, made known to a foreigner of inquiring mind, would lead him to question the accuracy of this statement. It would be inconceivable to him that anywhere in a country dedicated to freedom, such actions as daily take place in Goldfield, or such a condition as exists there, would be tolerated for a moment.

The editor of the Goldfield Chronicle tells of making up his paper for several days with the office force heavily armed and nine deputy sheriffs guarding the office on the outside. All of these precautions were rendered necessary because the paper was boycotted and the editor and printers had been warned to leave town for daring to express an honest opinion and tell the truth about the situation in Goldfield! They had been ordered to join the I. W. W. ("Independent Workers of the World") and had criminally refused to do so!

Conditions, however, are improving in Goldfield. It is reported that the mines are shut down and no business being done, as the long suffering public has grown tired of the domination of a lot of criminals masquerading in the guise of "workingmen."

And again we say with Madam Rowland, "Oh Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!"

The Shriners

It is pretty well assured that the Shriners will come to Glendale on May 6th next, and that they will come in force sufficient to take the town and annex it to Turkey or Turkestan or wherever it is that the invading army comes from. This should be a red-letter day for Glendale, as it will assist in putting our name upon the map of the world in letters of lurid red. High and Almighty Potentate Flint (or something to that effect) has promised that there will be at least two thousand of these distinguished visitors who will come to Glendale, and a few thousand more may be thrown in for good measure; but that is the minimum. They will be taken to Casa Verdugo and introduced to the mysteries of the festive tamale, the intricate enchilada, the tropical chili-con-carne, and some other delectables whose names have eluded us in the melee; after which they will escape, if they can, and whisper in loud tones to a waiting world the merits of a place called Glendale, that sits at the foot of the mountains overlooking the Western sea!

Glancing over the above, it seems to our critical judgment to be written in too light a vein. However, it all means that the coming of this army of visitors, representing many states of the Union and countries under other flags than ours, should be of inestimable benefit to us; and it will be our own fault if it does not so result.

Our citizens should all be ready to aid financially and otherwise, in the entertainment of these visitors. Every vehicle in this part of the valley should be pressed into service. And when we say "this part of our valley," we mean Tropic and any adjoining settlements that choose to be interested in the matter.

There promises to be such a crowd that they cannot all be programmed in any one place, and so their entertainment will devolve upon the whole neighborhood. An effort will be made to get the electric road to carry passengers free both ways between Tropic and Casa Verdugo for at least half of the day, so that the visitors may enjoy perfect freedom in traveling to and fro.

Let us give the Shriners a hearty California welcome!

THE WENGER-WHITAKER MUSICALS.

There have been musicales given in Glendale which we have not attended and there is therefore no disparagement intended of any previous performances which our music lovers have enjoyed, when we say that the concert of last Saturday evening at Masonic Hall, has not, in our opinion, been excelled in excellence by anything of the kind ever given here. The audience was large and every number was received with hearty evidence of appreciation. It is obviously unnecessary to specify any particular part as being worthy of mention when all was so thoroughly good. We give the program, and when we say that every number was rendered in a manner leaving nothing to be desired, the high character of the entertainment will be appreciated.

Editor Glendale News:

Dear Sir—In the report of the City Trustees of the 23rd I find the city attorney had misunderstood our position. We thought and claimed that we had paid our license for one year; we paid $10 into the treasury before the ordinance fixing the license at $10 per year was published. Our city attorney claims that the license is $10 for everyone in the office who in any way shares in the profits of the business. My wife and others have assisted me in the office, as well as my son, and we object to the principle which demands more than one license under these circumstances.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Campbell of Los Angeles were guests of Mrs. E. Perry last Sunday.

Mrs. Laura Johnson and daughter Maude, from Vermont who are wintering in Southern California, have been visiting the home of their uncle Wm. Lee, First and B streets.

I. N. McKown left last Wednesday evening for Washington and other points north. Mr. McKown has been stopping with his brother, L. G. McKown, during the past winter.

Services on Good Friday at St. Mark's will be at 10 in the morning and 8 in the evening. An Easter Sunday early communion at 7:30. Communion and sermon at 11. Evening prayer at 7:30.

Miss Adella Myer of North Hadley, Quebec, is the guest of Mr. B. B. Bryant and family on Third street near Verdugo road. Miss Myer is delighted with California and expects to make her home here.

Miss N. Maria Stevens of Bellrica, Mass., an old schoolmate of Mr. Edgar Leavitt, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt at their residence, "The Whispering Pines." Miss Stevens expects to make her home among us.

Miss Una Russell, corner Verdugo and Third street, entertained a party of friends Tuesday evening. The rooms were tastefully decorated with callas and greenery. About twenty were present; games were played and a most enjoyable time was experienced by all.

At the Presbyterian church there will be some very beautiful music sung by the choir and by the congregation appropriate to the Easter tide. The pastor will tell the most marvelous story of the ages at the morning service, and at the evening service will deal with some of the practical lessons of the resurrection.

Mr. Lee McConnell of Los Angeles who is one of the excursionists to Ha- wail on the steamer Ohio, writes to his brother in law, Mr. Overton, that their visit has been made very enjoyable by the hospitable attentions received on every hand. The excursionists are expected to be home the latter part of this week, having been gone about twenty-five days.

We were pleased to receive a call this week from Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hoswell, who were residents of Glendale about ten years ago, being owners of the place now owned by Mr. Schwemer on Verdugo road. Mr. and Mrs. Hoswell when they left here went to their old home in Chicago, where they have spent most of the years since we last saw them. They are now ready to make California their home and will probably settle in Glendale.

At the Lenten service Wednesday evening at St. Mark's Episcopal church the Rev. Robt. L. Windsor of St. Lukes, Los Angeles, delivered a most able address, taking for his subject "Prayer." Treating the subject as an acoustic, his first thought was privacy, in our supplications, giving suitable biblical quotations in strengthening the thought. Repose was the next point emphasized, showing the need of putting ourselves in the right condition to ward off temptation or to strengthen our mental faculties. Appeal was the next natural step, followed by yielding, expectation, and response. All these facts, blended together, show a life marked by the real spirit of prayer.

Howard Lennox of Verdugo road, a student of the University of Southern California, was a passenger on the ill-fated special which came in from the Claremont Field meet last Saturday evening and met the outgoing Santa Fe train on the bridge at Buena Vista street crossing. Mr. Lennox was in the third car from the engine and was one of the numerous passengers who left the scene without realizing the terrible results of the collision, as the fatalities occurred to those who traveled in the baggage car and in the next coach behind it.

One of those fine dinners at Mrs. Perry's "Albion" Restaurant tomorrow. Don't forget it.

Mrs. Utley and son from Chicago, are stopping at the Hotel Glendale.

St. Marks Guild met in Los Angeles last Thursday afternoon, as the guest of Miss Florence White.

The Ladies Auxilliary of St. Marks Episcopal Church, met with Mrs. Susie J. Hunt, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. L. G. Susemehl, an attorney of Davenport Iowa, is stopping at the Vert Mont, on Fourth st. Miss Dore of Boston and Mr. Harry F. Kerchdorfer of Louisville Ky., are also guests at this popular house, which reports all its rooms taken.

Mrs. C. B. Guenthart has returned home after an absence of a month or more, during which time she has been visiting her home and old friends in Joplin Mo. Mrs. Guenthart reports having had a delightful time and meeting with a very warm reception. She is glad however to be home again and her many friends are pleased to have her here again.

Among the recent arrivals in Glendale are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Connor, of Pittsfield, Maine, who have bought the old Kanous place at Sixth and A streets. Mr. Connor is one of the pioneers of Pittsfield, having been in business since 1847. He is so delighted with this part of the world that he has determined to wind up his affairs in the East and spend his declining years in Glendale.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Rev. Geo. R. Graff, a minister of the Southern California Conference living at Glendale, preached an excellent sermon last Sabbath evening to a good house, considering the condition of the weather. Rev. W. S. Blackburn will preach the Easter sermon on Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock. All should hear him. Special Easter music by the choir under the direction of Prof. Packard.

The Passing of Mrs. Rich

Mrs. Hannah Morse Rich (born Banks) the wife of Mr. C. O. Rich and mother of Mrs. F. L. Van Epps, Walter G. and Ernest W. Rich, died at the residence of her son, Walter Rich, in Los Angeles, Sunday afternoon, March 23, 1907.

Mrs. Rich had not been well for four or five years, but was able to be about, and the end came peacefully though unexpectedly.

She was born at Dixmont, Maine, February 19, 1853. She had been a resident of Glendale nineteen years and was well known to all the earlier settlers of our community. Her life, previous to the loss of her health a few years ago, was an unusually active and useful one. She was for many years at the head of the Good Templars Lodge; was president of the King's Daughters, a prominent member of the W. C. T. U. and of the Methodist church, and was always a worker.

She was laid away on Tuesday at Evergreen cemetery, Los Angeles. Services at the Memorial chapel were largely attended by friends from Glendale and elsewhere. The Rev. C. R. Norton preached a sermon on a text happily appropriate to the deceased, "Let me die the death of the righteous." A quartette composed of Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Moyses, Mrs. Burket and Miss Blackburn, sang at the chapel; Mrs. Engelhardt and Mrs. Moyses also sang a duet. The floral tributes were beautiful and in great profusion.

Mr. Norton will give a short memorial service in honor of the deceased, at the Methodist church next Sunday morning.

The News expresses the sense of loss felt by the community, and of sympathy for the bereaved family.

Let everybody who has a vehicle of any description with motive power of any sort, communicate to F. A. Albright, his willingness to contribute it and his services for the purpose of showing Glendale to these strangers. It not only means dollars to us, but it will be a supreme test of our hospitality.

POULTRY.

This leading industry has been neglected by us long enough and eggs have been forty cents a dozen too!

Our last article on this subject, containing valuable directions as to setting a hen and so forth, was, no doubt, properly assimilated and put into effect. The hen that you set then in accordance with our instructions, must have been on the eggs some six weeks. This is too long. Every properly constructed hen knows that 21 days is long enough to set on anything but china eggs. We will assume that after you have her set twenty days, the chicks began to appear. Maybe you thought that the old hen could be trusted, and left subsequent proceedings to her unaided wisdom. This is sometimes an error. If she was a big awkward fowl it is quite possible she tramped the life out of two or three of them the first night out. Or possibly she became impatient and when three or four chicks were out, the foolish mother imagined her task completed and waltzed out into the big world with them, leaving the other eggs to a cruel fate. This catastrophe might have been avoided if you had given them proper attention, taking the chicks away as fast as they emerged from the shells, and keeping them during the day beside the kitchen stove or in some other warm place, returning them to the mother at night. But we will assume that they hatched out pretty well. Don't bother about feeding them for twenty-four hours, then give them some dry bread crumbs or ground grain of some sort. Give some whole corn to the mother and she will not eat the food that you put down for the chicks. Don't give them wet food unless you wish them to inquire as they turn up their little toes:

"If so soon I was done for,
What was I ever began for?"

Some authorities recommend hard boiled eggs for young chicks. This diet will certainly not hurt them, but it's not worth while unless you are trying to force them into the Blue Ribbon class before the show opens. Having the drinking vessels so arranged that the youngsters will neither drown themselves nor get wet, neither practice is wholesome. You can buy good drinking vessels, but if you are a Yankee you can fix up something cheaply that will answer the same purpose—an old saucer with a rock in the center of it, for instance. It is good policy to set two hens at the same time, then you can give all the chicks to one mother. This plan works out especially well when the hatch is a poor one, on the principle that one hen with chicks, is just half as much trouble as two. When the chicks are a few days old and appear sickly the trouble may be caused by head lice; at least it won't do any harm to put just a touch of lard on the top of their heads. Of course we assume that the old hen and offspring are free from vermin; if you have any doubt of it, use insect powder judiciously, not so lavishly on the old hen as to smother the chicks when she hovers them. If a hen is not confined, she and her brood will need but little attention, and the youngsters can eat whole wheat at a remarkably early age; unless you are fortunately situated, however, the probability is that you have your hen in an enclosure. To leave a hen out of doors nights in this latitude, is tempting Providence and the hungry coyote, which will come down from the hills and sneak into your back yard regardless of every city ordinance that was ever framed. And the skunk is even worse; he dotes on young chicks and permeates an ordinary hen house as easily as he does the atmosphere. If he once gets the flock located he will keep after it until one party or the other is exterminated. Maybe this article will carry you through until our poultry editor has another spell of inspiration on the subject. This may happen next week, or next summer. In any case keep your eyes on the News columns for you can't afford to miss it.

SOMETHING ABOUT UNITS OF MEASURE IN MEASURING EXTENT.

We say a small object is so many inches long, or wide; a larger one is so many feet, or yards, it may be; and measuring of greater extent we express in miles. That is, when dealing with distances on the earth; and very commonly this measuring does duty among the starry worlds, also.

There is another term sometimes used, called the "astronomical unit," which means the distance from the earth to the sun,—a little over ninety-one millions of miles. This is a great leap of from one mile as a unit, to ninety-one millions of miles; but with the progress of research in this field, a vastly greater unit has come into use which is called "a light year."

Doubtless someone will invent a more convenient name for it than this apparently ambiguous one. We are becoming accustomed to the once oddly sounding words, "ampere," "kilo-wat," and "volt," which have been invented to meet demands of advancing electrical science.

What is a light-year? The distance which light travels in a year. The fixed stars are so amazingly far away that even the above mentioned "astronomical unit" is inconvenient, but this greater unit begins to serve the purpose.

Light travels 185,000 miles in one second of time. Multiply this by 60, and we have the distance in one minute, 10,300,000 miles. Multiply again by 60 to find the distance traveled in an hour, and we find six hundred and eighteen millions of miles.

Multiplying by 24 this gives nearly fifteen billions in one day; and in one year the distance is nearly six and one half trillions of miles, which is the distance—unit called a "light year." The nearest fixed star whose distance has been measured, is three times as far away.

The distance of the pole star contains about fifty of these units; and two or three of the most distant ones thus far measured are almost one hundred of these units distant. No star's distance can be measured the parallax of which has not been determined; and comparatively few have yet been carried through this process,—probably not more than two or three hundred. How this is done is another story.

The Juniors are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment Tuesday evening. Everything was strictly first class, program, audience and management. They now have a goodly bank account to help them over the struggles of senior week.

SECOND AFTERNOON CLUB.

The meeting of the club on Tuesday last was a most enjoyable affair. Odd Fellows hall had been secured in anticipation of the presence of a large audience, and in regard to the attendance, as well as to the program there was no disappointment. It was Mexican day with the club, and the decorations of the hall and everything else in connection with the entertainment, was suggestive of our sister republic.

Mrs. Corella Phipps, who had been for some years a resident of the city of Mexico, was the speaker of the afternoon, and was ably assisted by her daughter, who played the Mexican national anthem and other Mexican airs, sang in a charming manner some Mexican songs, and gave a graceful and enjoyable exhibition of Mexican dances.

Mrs. Phipps had with her a large and varied assortment of Mexican pottery, cloth, clothing and other articles with which her lecture was illustrated in an interesting and instructive manner. She spoke of the extent of the pottery industry, particularly in the manufacture of curios of various kinds for tourists and others; not forgetting to say that "ancient" relics were made to order in great quantities by the natives to supply the demand of curious tourists. She paid a high tribute to the artistic ability of the people, and illustrated the different style of their productions by samples. Their artistic talent is shown by the fact that the work they turn out shows a marked individuality in every piece. The people of one village or neighborhood do not compete with other places, but content themselves with one line of work, respectively apparently the exclusive right of other places to their own particular line. Many of the results obtained in the pottery work, as to glazing particularly, are by secret processes handed down from generation to generation. The speaker referred to the enthusiasm with which Charles Warren Stoddard wrote about the "lost arts" in connection with these art products, when he visited Mexico. Specimens were shown of some brilliant lacquer work in green that is produced in one particular place by a process known only to the workers, the color being the product of an insect. Some of the wares are in colors beautifully iridescent, produced by processes unknown outside certain families among the native artists. There is a steady home demand for small figures of various kinds, to be made use of by the people in the various and frequent church festivities which are a feature of Mexican life. These festivals and feast days are becoming less generally observed as the years go by, and one cannot but wonder what will be the result, when the present occupations of these people are "civilized" out of them, and machinery deprives them of the occupation which has supported them and their ancestors, much further back than our knowledge of their history goes! The speaker gave an interesting account of these feast days and of the flower festivals which she had witnessed. She told of the celebration of the Mexican Fourth of July, (Sept. 16th) and how on the evening of the 15th the great President Diaz, steps out on the balcony of the palace in the presence of the people, and waves aloft the identical flag which Hidalgo waved, when he made the effectual call upon the Mexican people to fight for independence, how the president cries "Viva Mexico," and the assembled thousands respond with "Vivas" and the bands play the national hymn of Mexico.

Miss Phipps gave an interesting account of the Mexican people, their history, origin, grades of society, manners and customs, but lack of space prevents us from doing justice to this interesting feature of her discourse.

After the lecture, Mrs. Pack, the president, gave graceful expression to the club's appreciation of Mrs. Phipps' effort; and Mexican refreshments, including cups of most delicious chocolate, were served to those present.

Incendiary Fire

The barn on Capt. C. E. Thom's ranch, north of Glendale, against the mountains, was destroyed by fire about 2 o'clock Monday morning. Six horses, fifty tons of hay, twelve sets of harness and a lot of rolled barley were among the contents of the building destroyed. The loss is heavy, as there was very little insurance.

LA CRESCENTA

It has been said, we understand, And has obtained belief, That editors your coin demand Or threaten you with grief, Now easy, easy, gentle sirs, And don't go "off your base," They do these things in other towns, But this is not the place!

We give you value for your coin, Your fame we spread abroad, We would not from your purse purloin Nor of your rights defraud, We have the print shop and the space All of our own creation, We have the press, we have the type, We have the circulation!

Give us a call; we'd gladly see Your ad our columns grace, But if you'd have us print for naught, Pass on—"tis not the place!"

AT HONOLULU.

Mrs. J. H. Wells has received letters from Mr. Wells and their son James, who are visiting Hawaii. They write that the trip over was very enjoyable. The weather in the Islands at present is perfect. The travelers had been in Honolulu and vicinity about a week and were looking forward to a trip to a neighboring island, somewhat off the path beaten by the average tourist. Mr. Wells was impressed by the possibilities for a successful fruit cannery with the abundance of wild guavas (of the lemon variety) to work upon. It is not now the season for the greatest varieties of fruit, but bananas, pineapples and guavas were in evidence.
